MONDAY, DECEMBER 2, 1872.

THE LAST DAYS OF HORACE GREELEY.

The strange reticence of Mr. Greeley's friends and of the Tribune concerning the sickness which resulted in his death caused the announcement of his decease to reach the public with a tragic shock. His location was carefully concealed and his condition surrounded with a mystery which was only increased by the vague rumors stimulated by a public interest that craved intelligence of the affliction which had befallen a distinguished citizen. It is only since his death that the particulars of his fatal sickness have been made known and we gather from various sources the following details of the sad history. The Tribune says:

So far as any of his associates knew, Mr. Greeley was in almost as good health as usual when, on the day after the election, he wrote the card announcing his resumption of the editorial charge of the Tribune. His sleeplessness was known to have become greatly worse, but for years he had suffered more or less from the same difficulty. It is now clear that sufficient allowance had not been made for the intense strain upon him throughout the Summer, and specially during the last month of his wife's illness. It soon became evident that his strength was unequal to the hard task to which he set himself. He wrote only three or four careful articles, no one of them half a column in length. The most notable, perhaps, was that entitled "Conclusions," wherein he summed up his views of the canvass. In all he furnished less than three and a half columns after his return, contributing to only four issues of the paper. Two or three times he attempted his accustomed short articles saying, "There is an idea worth using, but I have not felt able to work it out properly. You had better put it in shape." At last, on Tuesday, the 12th inst., he abandoned the effort, to visit the office regularly, and sent for the family physician of Mr. A. J. Johnson, the friend with whom he was a guest, and in whose house his wife had died. Every effort was made to induce a deep, but he grew steadily worse, until it became evident that his case was critical. Dr. G. C. S. Choate and others were called in consultation, and finally it was decided to take him to Dr. Choate's residence, two or three miles distant from Mr. Greeley's own country home at Chappaqua. Here he received the unremitting attention of Dr. Choate, and here Dr. Bronson Sequard, Dr. Brown and others were called in consultation. There were present his two daughters and a few intimate personal friends. The insomnia had developed into inflammation of the brain, and under this the vesicular patient rapidly sank. At times he was delirious, at other times as clear-headed as ever.

Another account says:

A short time prior to Mr. Greeley's last illness he was talking with Colonel Allen of the National Executive Committee in reference to the result of the political campaign. Said Mr. Greeley: "I could bear the defeat in the race for the Presidency, but the death of my wife completely overcomes me. It seems just as though I would not care to live longer. My wife has been my companion for nearly forty years. I have watched by her bedside night and day, and now I am completely worn out and prostrated from anxiety and want of sleep, but am obliged to come back to the Tribune, where my services are needed."

The following narrative by Hon. Rufus F. Andrews, long an intimate personal friend of the deceased, was made to a New York reporter Friday evening. Mr. Andrews visited Mr. Greeley on the 18th inst., on a matter of business. After being ushered into the presence of the great journalist, he noticed that Mr. Greeley was suffering from severe mental depression. He seemed strangely absent-minded, and replied to questions in an incoherent and inappropriate manner. Mr. Andrews says:

"I was greatly surprised at his personal appearance. Indeed, I should have scarcely known him, so changed and emaciated was he, had I not known I was in his presence. I addressed him cheerfully and cordially, as in former times. He sat in a moody state, and at first made no response. I was shocked at receiving no answer, and pained at the indifference and hesitation which he manifested. I saw at once that something was wrong. Mr. Greeley rose from his seat as some members of his household came in. He ushered me into an adjoining apartment and there sat down. The first expression he uttered, was, 'Rufus, I am hopelessly gone.' I said 'What is the matter, Mr. Greeley?' He replied, 'I am hopelessly gone.' I said, 'I am sorry, Mr. Greeley, to see you in this state of mind. I know you have suffered in losing the loss of your wife, but I hope your defeat has not had a tendency to depress you. The American people esteem you as much as ever. The result of the Presidential election does not arise from any want of appreciation of your abilities, or of the eminent services which you have rendered the country and its people.' Mr. Greeley, after a moment's hesitation, repeated the expression, 'I am hopelessly gone;' and added, 'I am ruined.' He then alluded in a brief expression to the personal business about which he desired to see me. I comprehended what he desired, and told him the I would endeavor to see that his wishes were complied with. I then added: 'Mr. Greeley, you must not allow yourself to be depressed by the various misfortunes which have come upon you. It is said that troubles never come singly, and I am sure that recently you have had more than your share.' Mr. Greeley then rose from his seat, and left with the expression, 'Rufus, I am hopelessly ruined.' Others who saw him at the same time were greatly shocked at his emaciated and dejected appearance. I immediately called upon some of his intimate friends and told them of his condition, and requested them to cheer him up. I felt convinced at the time, and so stated, that his case was hopeless."

The N. Y. Sun, which we are not in the habit of quoting, intimates that Mr. Greeley's illness was aggravated by the course of his editorial subordinates. We give its statement for what it may be worth:

Mr. Greeley was horrified on seeing in the Tribune of Nov. 5th, alongside of his own card, the remarkable editorial headed "Crumbs of Comfort," which expressed gratitude that his defeat would relieve him from the solicitations of office-beggars, and which insulted every person who voted for him. Mr. Greeley immediately went to the Tribune office and wrote a disclaimer that had never been consulted, never saw the article, and repudiated the sentiments and the language. This disclaimer was suppressed. He wrote another which was also suppressed after being in type. The severe criticisms which this article provoked from his late supporters added to his depression and illness. During his last hours he was so violent that the furniture was removed from the room. On one time he threw a kerosene lamp on the floor, setting fire to the room, and another time tore to pieces the watch presented him by the Tribune employes. As his strength left him he became more quiet.

The last hours of the great journalist are thus described:

During the day (as is usual in cases of inflamation of the brain) his physical suffering was extremely slight, but an increased and morbid action of the mind was evident from exterior manifestations. About noon, however, he said quite distinctly and with some force, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

A half-past five an old family friend known as Auntie Lawson entered and approached the bed. Mr. Greeley was then roused by the friend and asked, "Do you know who this is?" His feebly said, "Yes," and stretched out his hand in greeting, and then relapsed into his reverie.

Later he was asked, "Do you know that you are dying?" and in the same manner, without tremor or emotion, he answered, "Yes." Again when asked if he recognized Mr. Reid he looked up with immediate recognition, lifted his hand, grasped Mr. Reid's feebly, and said, distinctly, "Yes."

When asked if he was in pain he laid his hand upon his breast but without otherwise replying, and returned to his semi-unconscious state—lying now with closed eyes and hands, sometimes twitching nervously, but generally still.

At half-past six he stirred uneasily, and began to mutter indistinctly something which the friends around him could not catch. His daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Stoddard, Mr. Carpenter, Dr. Choate and Auntie Lawson were by the bedside, and putting his hand to Mr. Greeley's heart, said, "He is gone."

The Tribune thus touchingly describes the closing scene in the memorable life of its great founder and chief:

His younger daughter Miss Gabrielle, was with him through Thursday evening. Throughout Friday the elder daughter, Miss Ida, was in constant attendance, and she had been during the whole of his illness, and of Mrs. Greeley's before him. Other members of his Chappaqua household were present, with Mr. and Mrs. Stuart and a few other friends. Nothing that science or affection could suggest was wanting to ease the last hours. The wintry night had fairly set in, when the inevitable hour came. Without, sleighs were running to and fro, bearing to Chappaqua, the nearest telegraph station, the latest bulletins which the thousands of anxious hearts in the great city, near-by, kept demanding. Within, the daughter and a few others stood near the dying man; in the adjoining room sat one or two more friends and the physician. At ten minutes before 7 o'clock the watchers drew back in reverent stillness from the bedside. The great Editor was gone,—"in peace after so many struggles; in honor after so much obloquy."

THE PRESS ON THE DEATH OF MR. GREELEY.

The sudden death of the great editor who has so long held a leading position in American journalism, furnishes the principal topic of remark in the newspapers of the country, and all unite in sincere tributes to the memory of the departed. We extract a few paragraphs from some of the leading journals. The N. Y. Times says:

"Mr. Greeley's loss in journalism is one which cannot be replaced. The incidents of his last sickness were peculiarly distressing, and from all we can learn his reverses during the campaign cannot alone account for them. If he had been successful the probabilities are that he would not have lived; so over-taxed was his strength, and so utterly broken down was his constitution. The labors and excitement of his canvass were more than his body or mind could bear. We shall not attempt at this moment to do justice to Mr. Greeley as a journalist and public man. His life is a part of the history of the country during the last thirty years, and the time has not yet come when it can be impartially considered. It is certain that Mr. Greeley's name will always be honored in connection with the anti-slavery struggle, and with many important measures which he fought for with remarkable vigor simply because he believed they were right. Into these subjects we will not now enter, for the country is scarcely rid of the din and turmoil of a memorable and unhappy past. Historians will do justice to Mr. Greeley, and in the meanwhile his country men will be strangely forget ful if they fail to pay due tribute to his memory. He has been before them for almost a generation, and he has had their confidence in many trying periods of our history. Let us now remember only his virtues and his genius."

The editor of the World displays more feeling than either of his contemporaries in referring to the death of a political antagonist but personal and the double bereavement of the orphaned daughters. It says:

A great light of American journalism, and and perhaps the most remarkable American of his period, breathed his last a little before seven o'clock yesterday even ng. It has never been our lot to record a death whose surrounding and antecedents in pressed us with such a sense of mournful, and even tragic pathos. That of President Lincoln had indeed more of the horror of a certain kind of stage effect; but it fell short of this in the affecting appeal it makes to the deepest sympathies of our common human nature, and its power to touch those deep well-springs of feeling which are the fountain of unaffected tears. We write these sad lines with a tide of emotion pouring into our swimming eyes. * * * Though an unsparing controversialist, he bore no malace even in the heat of political contention; and no man ever responded more warmly to the personal esteem of party antagonists. Even with Stephen A. Douglass his relations and intercourse rested on a footing of the frankest, heartiest good-will; and there have been recent instances in which he gave his confidence to political opponents with a more trusting unreserve—if it were permitted us to mention them. * * * It is difficult to think of anything beyond the grief-inspiring spectacle of such a death following so swiftly upon the great eclipse and extinguishment of the hopes which Mr Greeley had good reasons for entertaining during some stages of the recent, crushing canvass. "The stars in their courses" seemed to fight against him.

The Herald reviews his career at length and says:

"From day to day for a week past the news of Mr. Greeley's severe mental and physical prostration have left his community, and the country not wholly unprepared for his dissolution, and yet we may say of him, as the expiring Chief Red Jacket said of himself, that the news of his death will come upon his people like the sound of the fall of a giant pine in the stillness of the woods." He has, in a mistaken aspiration for all higher fields of usefulness and power and glory, fallen a sacrifice to his political ambition. He had failed to appreciate the commanding position which he had secured as a leading American journalist, and in leaving it to pursue the ignis fatuus of the Presidency he dropped the substance for the shadow of a great distinction. Otherwise the history and the enduring rewards of Mr. Greeley's industrious and useful career are full of encouragements to young men who, without capital, personal influence or powerful friends, have the battle of life before them. He leaves an honored name behind him and the high reward of an encouraging example as an American journalist and a self-made man."

The Sun bites the following historical instances of death resulting from disappointment, as parallels to the case of Mr. Greeley:

"It may be said that the time and circumstances of Mr. Greeley's death betrayed a certain weakness of character and infirmity of mind. This is undoubtedly true, but this weakness and infirmity be held in common with some of the greatest men of our times. On learning of the defeat of the allies at Austerlitz, the younger Pitt, then at the head of the European coalition to put down Napoleon, retired to his country home and died of a broken heart. Earl Durham, Governor-General of the Canadas, son-in-law of Earl Gray, and prospective leader of the liberal party of England, when the Whig Ministry of Lord Melbourne refused to sanction his Canadian reforms and ordered him home in disgrace, repaired to his baronial mansion at Lambeth and had his mortified pride in a premature grave. When the Whig Convention of 1852 refused to nominate Webster to the Presidency, especially the Southern delegates, for whose section of the Union he had put to hazard his reputation in New England, declined to give him their votes, he went to Marshfield, turned his face to the wall and gave up the ghost. Douglass, young, hardy, elastic, and not easily abashed, was so depressed by his disastrous defeat in 1860 that he went to Illinois in the gloomy summer of the following year, pined away under a complication of disorders, which, baffling the skill of physicians, carried him to the tomb. Horace Greeley can afford to die in company like this. Peace to the manes of the best representatives which our times have known of—Benj. Franklin, Jeremy Bentham and William Cobbett."

The Tribune closes its editorial obituary as follows:—

It is not for us, in the first hour of our loss, to dwell long here, upon his character; or catalogue his virtues. To his associates and disciples the bereavement is a grief too personal to leave them heart for making eloquent phrases. Although for several months we have missed the inspiration of his presence and the guidance of his wise counsel, his spirit has never ceased to animate those chosen to continue his work, and the close bond of sympathy between the chief and his assistants has never been broken. To those of us who have labored with him longest, and known him best, it has been a bond, not only of sympathy but of tried affection. We leave his praises to the poor whom he succored, to the lowly whom he lifted up, to the slave whose back he saved from the lash, to the oppressed whose wrongs he made his own.

The Boston Advertiser candidly reviews the great qualities and conspicuous failings of Mr. Greeley and says:

Added to the trials of a personal canvass for the Presidency—trials to which even his life of intense and often bitter controversies had not accustomed him—were the anxieties consequent upon the illness and death of his wife, and, after all the extreme disappointment in the loss of the one great object of his ambition,—an object which to the very day of the election he firmly believed was the Having used one of these machines for nearly two months, I feel that too much cannot be said in its praise. It does its work elegantly. In economizing decay, I have yet to find the patient who has been caused any suffering whatever by its use, whereas by the old hand method more or less pain was always experienced. It does it more thoroughly and in about one-fourth the time consumed by the old method. My patients are every one delighted with its use, saying that under no consideration would they be induced to return to the old method. I should be pleased to exhibit its action to any who desire to see it.

Furious Gale

AT

ST. JOHN'S, N. B.

Nine Vessels Ashore and two a Total Loss.

Many Lives Lost!

Narrow Escape of the Steamer New Brunswick!

BUILDINGS DEMOLISHED IN THE CITY!

TERRIBLE SCENE OF DESTRUCTION!

ST. JOHN, N.B., Dec. 1. An exceedingly severe gale of rain and snow prevailed here on Friday night and Saturday, doing immense damage to the shipping in the harbor, and a great loss of life among the crews of dismasted and disabled vessels.

DISASTERS TO SHIPPING.

The Pioneer Reward, from Hillsboro' for New York, made the harbor to escape the gale, was driven on to the Foul Ground, and three of her crew. Several men were in the rigging, and great efforts were made to save them, but they were all swept off and drowned except two, who were saved by the port life boat.

The schooner Addie Ryerson from Windsor, for Philadelphia, also went ashore, as the schooners Enterprise, Pioneer, and Lizzie, the crews were all saved after great exertion.

The wreck of the brigantine Henry Gilbert is lying on the beach, having washed ashore. It is supposed that the unfortunate crew have gone to pieces.

Capt. C. H. Dyer was forced ashore at Grand Manan, but as she lies in a favorable position it is hoped that she may escape with slight damage.

The American ship Hunter, lying at the quarantine station, lost her anchor cables, tore away the moorings, and dashed bows foremost into the shore upon the eastern end of Scammell's Island, demolishing the jib-boom and shattering the building. The cable held the vessel to the wharf was snapped like a packthread.

The steamer Spring Bud, for Calais, went ashore at Musquash, and lost both anchors in the harbor, but it is believed she can be got off discharging her cargo.

The brig Havelock is also ashore with loss of her anchors and cribbing.

THE STEAMER NEW BRUNSWICK,

Capt. Lockhart, was struck by the storm off Point Prais, and have to. She had an exciting enough time of it. The sea boarded during the saloon, when she was for this morning arriving here at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The shipping in the harbor suffered very less severely, and grave fears are entertained for the fleet which left port shortly before the gale.

IN THE CITY

the damage was done, several buildings blown down, among them the new edifice nearly completed for the Young Men's Christian Association, which crushed three groceries in its fall.

A number of dwellings were blown over, others demolished, and other small buildings completely smashed. Fences and signs flew in every direction, and hundreds of chimney-pots were thrown down. So furious a gale has been experienced here for years.

MAINE NEWS.

LAUNCHED.

BELFAST, Nov. 30.

Schooner J. McNear, 1400 tons, owned by Capt. J. H. McNear, of Boston, was launched today from the yard of Capt. Henry McGilvery this city.

FROM PORTLAND

FOUND DEAD.

PORTLAND, Dec. 1.

Mr. Frank Knights, an aged citizen of Westbrook, was found dead in his barn Saturday where he had gone to feed his cattle. Disease was the cause.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

The elegant large residences of F. O. J. Smith, Esq., and Francis Chase, Superintendent of the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth R. R., was destroyed by fire to-night. The first was valued at $15,000, and was insured for $11,000. The furniture in Mr. Libby's house insured $7,000, and in Mr. Chase's for the same. The house is completely burned and the furniture nearly so.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

NEW YORK CITY.

THE SHIPPING LAW.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30. Judge Benedict today gave a decision that the new shipping law was constitutional in every respect.

THE REMAINS OF MR. GREELEY

are brought to this city from Pleasantville this Saturday evening, and are now at the residence of Samuel Sinclairy publisher.

THE FUNERAL.

It is definitely decided that Horace Greeley's funeral will be on Wednesday, from Dr. Chapin's Universalist Church, at 11 o'clock.

TO BE HANGED.

Henry Rogers is to be hanged next Friday. He has applied to Judge Fancher for a stay of proceedings. Decision reserved.

THE GALE.

There is heavy wind in the harbor and it is blowing over the city to-night. A row of small buildings on Lewis avenue in Brooklyn were blown over.

NEW HAMPSHIRE.

FATALLY INJURED.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Nov. 30. Thomas Hanson, an Irishman of this city, imagining the police were after him last Sunday evening, jumped overboard from Nobles Island bridge and striking on a pile broke several of his ribs and fell into the water. He died last night from his injuries.

WASHINGTON.

THE EIGHT HOUR LAW.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30. A committee of bricklayers of New York and Jersey City, arrived here to-day with a view of having the to the subjoined letter, it is proper to state that Mr. Greeley was a warm personal friend of Charles Lanman, to whom it was addressed. "Mr. Lanman's earlier essays as a writer were published in the New Yorker, although he never participated in politics. Mr. Greeley occasionally favored him with letters of advice, and took special interest in the success of his Dictionary of Congress. Mr. Greeley's last note to Mr. Lanman, is as follows:

NEW YORK, Nov. 27, 1872.

Friend Lanman:—I received yours of the 25th inst. I have all my life been doing what people called vastly foolish, impolitic acts, and I did not dispute their judgment. I only said that what I did seemed to me the right thing. If I should die before election or beaten therein, please testify for me that I do not regret having braved public opinion, when I thought it wrong and knew it to be merciless.

Yours,

(signed), HORACE GREELEY.

BOND AND GOLD SALES.

The Secretary of the Treasury has authorized the Assistant Secretary at New York to purchase one million of bonds each Wednesday and sell one million of gold each Thursday during December.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEE OF APPROPRIATIONS has perfected the Legislative, Executive and Judicial appropriation bill, the Indian appropriation bill, the Consular and Diplomatic bill, the pension bill and the Post Office appropriation bill, which will be reported to the House early this week.

ALABAMA.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION STILL MUDDLED.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Nov. 30. This morning a detachment of 70 United States cavalrymen marched to a point 20 yards from the Capitol grounds and bivouacked.

INTENSE EXCITEMENT

prevailed, but on its being learned that the troops were intended for a mere posse comitatus the excitement subsided considerably.

THE LEGISLATURE AT THE CAPITOL

passed a bill and sent it to Governor Lewis, but he refused to receive it. A joint resolution passed appointing a committee to communicate the facts of the situation by telegraph to the Government at Washington and appointing a delegate to present a written statement of the case to the President. The Legislature express great confidence that the President will sustain them when the facts are laid before him.

In answer to the communication of the Capitol Legislature yesterday, Governor Lewis replied that two bodies claim his recognition, that a majority of the other received a majority of the votes cast, and that he because if the persons whom he said did not receive a majority of the votes were excluded that body would be without a quorum.

THE COURT HOUSE MOBS

did nothing to day. They have been in secret session.

TENNESSEE.

STEAMER SUNK.

MEMPHIS, Nov. 30. The steamer Little Rock from Little Rock for Memphis, with 308 bales of cotton, sunk near Kingsroughs Landing 60 miles below Pine Bluffs, yesterday. She was valued at $ 5,000. The cotton was insured.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRES

have raged throughout the past week on the prairie and adjacent to Duval's bluff, Ark., doing great damage, but were extinguished by rains the first of this week.

NORTH CAROLINA.

STILL VOTING.

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 30. The vote upon the Senatorial question in the Legislature causes continued excitement to day. The 1st ballot was almost the same as yesterday; on the 2nd ballot, Vance received 73, Merrimon 31, Pool 38. The Republicans voting for Merrimon are increasing.

MISSOURI.

IMPORTANT DECISION.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30. A suit was decided yesterday in the United States District Court, at Jefferson City, which affects nearly all the railroads in the State. It appears that bonds were issued by many counties to the railroads and have not been stamped according to law. The United States brought suits to enforce the penalty, the suits against Buchanan and Jackson counties were made test cases. The defendants demurred on the ground that as public corporations, the counties were not chargeable with intent to invade the laws and were therefore not proper parties to proceedings of this kind. The demurrer was sustained by Judge Krekle and the suits dismissed.

MASSACHUSETTS.

FIRE IN FITCHBURG—A MAN AND TWELVE HORSES BURNED TO DEATH.

BOSTON, Nov. 30. Kauffer's stable with 12 horses and other contents, was burned in Fitchburg this morning, also a wooden tenement. Phelps Dale a well-known musical professor was burned to death while attempting to remove articles from the tenement.

SMALL POX IN BOSTON.

Of 176 deaths in Boston the present week 53 were from small-pox.

FROM THE PACIFIC COAST.

HEAVY RAINS.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30. Heavy rains prevail throughout California to the north as far as Oroville and south to Visalia. The season promises very favorably.

HEAVY SALVAGE.

The agents of the Pacific Mail Co. require shippers by the Arizona to pay $60,000 for the services of the Constitution in towing the vessel into this port.

A FIRE

at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, destroyed Haye's Valley Pavilion, a place of popular resort for years past. Loss $86,000. It was the work of an incendiary.

UTAH.

ELECTION FRAUDS.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 30. Gen. Maxwell this morning served a notice upon George Q. Cannon of his intention to take testimony at Provo city in the contested case of the election of a delegate to Congress. It is said that startling developments will be made in regard to the abuse of the elective franchise in Utah.

STOP.

Alpha Hall, shot by Charles Balden at Springville, the 27th inst., died yesterday.

Washakie, a Shoshone Chief, and a fast friend of the white settlers of this territory, was killed in a drunken row. There is much regret among the old citizens at his death.

THE WEATHER

is pleasant and but little snow in the mining districts. There are now hopes of our winter railroad trains running on time.

FROM BOSTON.

BODY FOUND.

BOSTON, Dec. 1. The charred bones of another human body have been recovered from the fire ruins.

WORKMEN DISCHARGED.

Five hundred workmen were discharged from Charlestown Navy Yard yesterday.

LOUISIANA.

EXTENSIVE FIRE.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30. Twenty small houses between Jackson, Phillips Annunciation, Laural and Chippewa streets were burned this evening. Loss $40,000; half insured in home companies.

NEW YORK STATE.

COLD WEATHER.

OSWEGO, Nov. 30. The weather is very cold. Boats that left here yesterday afternoon are frozen in at Battle Island.

FOREIGN NEWS.

GREAT BRITAIN.

BANQUET.

LONDON, Nov. 30. Capt. Baind of the American Navy was entertained at a banquet in Malta, this week, by Admiral Inglefield, commandant of that station. The Admiral proposed the health of the President of the United States, coupled with the toast and hope that England and America might ...

The Situation in France!

HEATED DEBATE IN THE ASSEMBLY!

LEFRANC CENSURED AND RESIGNS!

Thiers' Government Believed to be Approaching its End!

THE CRISIS DRAWS NEAR

PARIS, Nov. 30. In the National Assembly this afternoon, before the minutes of the previous sitting were ratified, Baragnon, Conservative Deputy, protested against the vote of yesterday on the resolution of Minister Dufaure being recorded, because several of the Deputies were absent and he did not believe the result was a fair expression of the will of the Assembly. M. Balbie, said he considered that the vote has eloquently demonstrated on which side a Conservative policy could be found. This remark gave rise to great excitement in the Chamber, many Deputies protested against the language of Balbie, and recriminations passed backward and forward between the opposing parties. A Deputy from Paris questioned the government, relating to the encouraging address which had been sent to President Thiers by municipal councils during the present controversy. He accused the government of conniving at and inciting them. Lefranc Minister of the Interior, warmly defended the action of the government in receiving the addresses and announced that he accepted for himself the principle of Ministerial responsibility. The agitation in the Chamber here became very great. Duval made a violent attack upon the government. Henceforth he said neither the Orleanists, Bonapartists or Legitimists will exist, but all parties will unite to arrest the fatal descent of the country. He continued at length in a violent strain, and concluded by moving a resolve declaring that the Municipal Councils had violated the laws of the country and that Lefranc in receiving the addresses for the President has also failed to observe them. Amid much excitement the Assembly proceeded to vote on the motion, and it was approved by 305 yeas, against 229 nays. The result caused a great sensation in the Chamber, and the sitting was immediately brought to a close.

Throughout the entire debate party feeling was influenced to its highest pitch. The gloomiest impressions prevail this evening in Paris. It is believed that it will be impossible for Thiers to govern the country under the present circumstances. The Monarchists declare they will oppose Thiers to the bitter end, unless he disavows all responsibility for the cause of Gambetta.

LATER.

PARIS, Nov. 30—10 P. M. It is announced this evening that Lefranc has tendered his resignation to the President. The Ministers are now closeted with Thiers.

GERMANY.

THE CONCENTRATION OF FORCES IN FRANCE DENIED.

BERLIN, Nov. 30. The German government authorized an emphatic contradiction of the report telegraphed from Paris to the London Telegraph, that Gen. Manteuffel commander of the German forces in France has received orders to concentrate his forces in case of certain contingencies.

THE DOMINION.

PRODUCE MARKET.

The following report is obtained by particular observation on this market and the quotations are the prices paid for produce from the country means friday, or about the average for the week past:

HAY. The market has been quite well supplied with some hay during the week which has sold at $18 to $19 and the very best a little at $20 per ton. Some inferior hay has sold at prices ranging down to $16 and $17 per ton, one of the hay now brought in is of fine and good quality, and deserves to be quoted at $20 per ton. Some inferior hay has sold at Bangor market for from $14 to $16 and $17 per ton, according to quality.

STRAW. Long straw is worth on the market from $[illegible]

POTATOES are selling on the market to-day at 70 to 75 cents per bushel.

TURNIPS. Rutabaga turnips sell at 50 to 60 cents per bushel.

POULTRY. The market has been pretty well supplied with poultry for the week past, and since Thanksgiving we should guess as selling somewhat dull at lower prices. Chickens from 12 to 18 cents ⅌ lb and fowls old 10 to 12 and Turkeys from 14 to 16 cents per pound. Geese 75 cents to $1 each and Ducks 75 cents to $1,00 per pair.

FRESH MEAT. Round hogs are worth from 7 to 8 and 8½ cents per pound, and fresh beef sells on the market by the quarter carcass, from 6 to 12 and 13 cents per pound. Mutton are worth from 8 to 10 and Lambs at 10 to 12 cents per pound.

WOOD AND COAL. The best quality of dry hard wood is worth from $7,00 to $8,00 per cord and soft do. $6,00 to $6,00. The best qualities of coal for kitchen and furnace are sold at $8,00 to $6,50 per ton. Soft coal one shilling per bushel.

WOOL, &c. The Round hogs are worth from 7 to 8 cents per pound and wool skins sell current at $1,40 to $2 00 each. Hides sell at 6 to 8½ cents per pound.

—The schooner Union Flag, from this city for Philadelphia, with a cargo of lumber, was set ashore on the East Chop, Vineyard Sound by the current on Thursday evening, but it was expected that she could be got off without great damage.

—The fireman on the engine of the mixed train from this city to Waterville was severely bruised and received a deep cut on the head by falling from the tender while preparing to fill the tender-tank from the water station at Newport Saturday afternoon.

—The Boston & Maine Railway Company are now negotiating for and will soon have their cars equipped with the Miller platform and Westinghans air-brake. The extension from Berwick to Portland will be completed and cars run on the first day of January next.

—It was not Messrs. Trask & Chalmers who dissolved partnership the other day, as many people suppose, but Messrs. S. Chalmers & Co., truckmen. Trask & Chalmers propose to continue the hardware business as heretofore, at their store on Exchange street, where they will keep a full line of goods.

—Six vessels sailed from this city Saturday, leaving only three in port, all schooners—the Corris E. Woodbury, discharging coal at Farrar's wharf, the Isabella Jewett, loading lumber at the Maine Central wharf, and the Metropolis, loading lumber at one of the E. & N. A. wharves. These vessels sailed last night.

—Owing to the late arrival of the Maine Central freight train Saturday night, the stock of goods advertised to be sold at auction at No. 20 Main-st. cannot be opened in season for inspection this morning, but the sale will commence as announced, in the afternoon, and on Tuesday morning the remainder may be opened.

MORTALITY IN NOVEMBER. We learn from Wm. Lowney, Esq., City Undertaker, that the number of persons who died in this city during the month of November just past, was ten, of which nine were adults and one a child. Six died of consumption, two of fever, one of liver complaint, and one of small-pox. It will be seen that our city has been remarkably healthy during the month.

THE EVENING SCHOOL, for apprentices, under the auspices of the Bangor Mechanic Association, opens this evening at 7 o'clock in the Common Council room, City Hall, where apprentices can obtain tickets entitling them to attend. This is an excellent project, and we hope the Association may be encouraged by success of this experimental term to sustain the school as a permanent institution.

—The steamer Katahdin which left Boston at 5 o'clock Friday evening did not arrive in Rockland until 8 o'clock Saturday morning, on account of the severe gale. She arrived at Hampden a little before 4 in the afternoon, waited for the tide until about half-past six, and then resumed her way, arriving here at half-past 7 in the evening. The Cambridge was still at Rockland when the Katahdin left that city.

THE TRAINS were all late Saturday night. The Maine Central passenger train did not arrive until 8:20, and the freight train due at 3:45 did not put in an appearance until after 11 o'clock. The late arrival of the Boston trains at Portland was the primary cause of the delay. The E. & N. A. train from St. John, due at 6, 32 was delayed by a wash-out in Carleton, and did not reach here until nearly midnight.

NEW FIRM. The firm of Thompson & Kellogg is announced in to-day's WHIG & COURIER. The senior member, Mr. J. W. Thompson, is well known, having for some time past carried on the grocery business successfully on Central Street, and the junior member, Mr. N. P. Kellogg, is equally well known as one of the late firm of S. H. Dale & Co. These gentlemen will carry on the grocery business in all its branches at the old stand of Thompson & Co., Central street.

ICE IN THE RIVER. The Penobscot river is practically closed to navigation to this city, as it is full of floating ice. The ice stopped yesterday morning, but started again in the afternoon. The steamer Katahdin hastened loading and sailed for Boston yesterday afternoon, to escape being caught should the ice make another stop. If a "spell" of warm weather follows this "cold snap," however, we shall probably see more shipping here, as several vessels are bound to this port.

THE POTATO BUSINESS. James Morrow, Esq., has closed his operations in the potato market here for the season, having shipped from this city 25,000 bushels since last spring. He has loaded seven vessels, besides sending large quantities by the steamers. Forty car-loads (14,000 bushels) which he has shipped came down over the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad. The average price for potatoes this season has been about 67 cents per bushel, 17 cents more than the average price last year.

A WORTHY TRIBUTE. At a meeting of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association at that place on Friday, resolutions were adopted providing for the erection of a memorial column and statute in honor of Gen. Meade. An Executive Committee consisting of President Grant and a number of Generals, were selected to have charge of raising a fund of $10,000. It was also resolved that an address be issued inviting the co-operation of Governors, Legislatures, and Mayors and Councils of cities which furnished forces to the Army of the Potomac and to the Union Leagues, Associations of the Pennsylvania Reserves and the Grand Army of the Republic, in raising a "Meade Memorial Fund."

RAILROAD EXCURSION. On Wednesday morning next, the Directors, Superintendents, Engineering Corps, Bridge Inspectors, and others of the Maine Central Railroad Company, accompanied by the State Railroad Commissioners, will, by invitation of Chief Engineer Holt, start on a tour of inspection over the road and all its branches, to examine the work of construction and repairs accomplished under the Chief Engineer's direction this season. The party will travel by special train, taking a caterer and supplies for "boarding themselves" on the road. They will arrive in this city Thursday night and remain until Friday morning, when they will resume their tour, arriving at Portland at its completion, on Saturday night.

THE CONCERT THIS EVENING. Our city readers will have an opportunity of hearing some excellent music in Norombega Hall this evening, on the occasion of the concert by Mrs. Houston-West, Mrs. Barry, Messrs. Packard, Whitney and Howard—all first class artists and all well known and favorites here. To show the quality of the concert, we have only to append the following

THE GREAT STORM AT ST. JOHN.

One of the heaviest gales known for years was experienced in St. John, N. B., Friday night and Saturday, as we learn from a gentleman who came from that city on Saturday's train. The storm commenced between 11 and 12 o'clock Friday night, with rain, but changed to snow in the morning, the accompanying wind blowing from the eastward with resistless fury. Chimneys, signs, and shutters were blown down in all parts of the city, but the most serious damage on land was the destruction of the new brick building in process of erection by the Young Men's Christian Association. Its lofty walls were toppled over, and in their descent demolished several smaller buildings, but fortunately injuring no one. The force of the wind was terrific, and pedestrians could with difficulty retain their footing on the streets, while many were injured by falling bricks, slates, etc. One unfortunate man was blown from a wharf into the river and unable to resist the tremendous current, was swept away and drowned.

The tide rose to a great height, submerging many of the wharves on both sides of the river and even covering with water, the lower portions of some of the streets. Great damage was thus done by submerging and sweeping away goods on the wharves, and filling cellars and basements in which valuable stocks were stored. The waves dashed inland on the Carleton side so far as to wash out a big gap in the E. & N. A. railway track, which it was impossible to cross with the train, to which the train from Fredericton and laid high and dry, when our informant left on the train, and a dispatch since received reports others in the same predicament. A large barque was sunk in the night, and in the morning five men were discovered lashed to the tops of the masts, covered by the waves every few minutes—the only survivors of the crew. Desperate efforts were made to rescue them. Two steam tugs made the endeavor several times, but in vain, and before noon the masts had broken off, leaving the men to the mercy of the waves. A brave crew in a life-boat succeeded in saving two of the unfortunate men, but the other three were drowned.

The destruction of property must have been immense, and the loss of life deplorable. Further particulars are given in our telegraphic columns.

NEW MAGAZINES.

HERALD OF HEALTH. The December number of this magazine is replete with valuable matter, as have been the several issues of the year. The proprietors offer new subscribers, three numbers for 1872 and a beautiful chromo. The January number will contain an essay entitled the Conduct of Life written by the Grecian Orator Isocrates, nearly twenty-two hundred years ago. Wood & Holbrook, publishers, 15 Laight street, N. Y.

ARTHUR'S LADIES' HOME MAGAZINE. There are a large number of fine illustrations in the December number of this magazine and an excellent array of reading matter which make the final issue for 1872 unusually attractive. T. S. Arthur & Sons, Publishers.

ALABAMA AND NORTH CAROLINA SENATORSHIP. A Washington special of Wednesday night referred to these contests as follows:—

Senator Pool of North Carolina and Spencer of Alabama are now, according to advices received here, confident of re-election. Twenty-two moderates, Merrimon's friends, will join on the Democratic caucus nominating ex-Governor Vance. The Republicans in the North Carolina Legislature, only lack twelve votes, having seventy-three, and wanting eighty-five to elect. Gen. Abbott is confident of Pool's election. Senator Spencer telegraphs here that the quarrel there will be settled, and he will be elected. As facts develop, it is seen that the row there has been a personal one, being a revolt against General Spencer's good fortune in securing a majority in the Legislature on the part of certain native Republicans who desire to compass his defeat. The attempt to show that there was not a working republican majority elected is a failure.

The committee on appropriations, to whom the Hubbard-Palmer Telegraph Company bill was submitted, is divided in about three equal parts, one favoring, one opposing, one neutral. They hope, however, that, when the expected Presidential recommendations are made, the subject will be referred to a select committee.

BUSINESS ITEMS

T. B. Mayo, at No. 16 Main Street, is selling out his entire stock of Fancy Goods at less than wholesale prices, to close business. Bangor, Dec. 2d, 1872. tf

PROPERTY THAT CANNOT BURN UP. The great fire at Chicago a year ago, and the more recent one at Boston, which together destroyed property to the amount of nearly three hundred million dollars, showed, the uncertainty of investment in even the most massive and thoroughly constructed buildings in the most choice localities. The granite warehouses of Boston were apparently the safest basis for mortgage loans, and yet they melted away before the fierce heat, leaving only ashes and rubbish upon which to realize, as the owners and Insurance Companies have learned to their cost. If stone and iron are not secure, what is? And where can surplus funds be put with an assurance that they will be free from such awful disasters?

It seems to us that the answer is found in the Bonds upon first-class railroad property. A railroad may lose a depot or a train by fire, but the road itself cannot be burned up, nor destroyed by an earthquake. Indeed, the railroads leading into Chicago, although losing much valuable city property, had their transportation facilities taxed to carry to that city the lumber and other material necessary for the rebuilding of the city, and the goods to supply the needs of its inhabitants.

In our advertising columns will be found a statement of the financial condition of one of the roads leading into Chicago—the CHICAGO, DANVILLE & VINCENNES. This road, in addition to its favorable location (running direct from the Indiana coal fields to the Western metropolis) gives actual earnings for the past eleven months of its operation, which prove its prosperity. These earnings, net, have been enough to pay a dividend on its stock, besides interest upon the Company's Bonds. A small amount of these First Mortgage Bonds are offered for sale by the local agents at this place, at 90 and interest, at a price which they pay nearly 9 per cent. upon the cost. These Bonds are thus safe and profitable, the two great desiderata of a desirable investment.

We shall close our Store at 6½ p. m., from Dec. 2d till April 1st, Saturday evenings excepted. NORTON & FARRINGTON.

Persons suffering from impure blood, or whose health is giving way, either as ministers or those who study closely, will find in Fellow's Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, the material to build them up and the tonic to keep them there. DR. CLAY.

Consumption can be Cured.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP,
SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC,
SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS,

Are the only medicines that will cure Pulmonary Consumption.

Sometimes medicines that will stop a cough will often, shorten the death of the patient. It locks up the liver, stops the circulation of the blood, hemorrhage follows, and, in fact, clogging the action of the very organs that caused the cough.

Liver complaint and dyspepsia are the causes of two thirds of the cases of consumption. Many are now complaining with dull pain in the side, the bowels sometimes costive and sometimes too loose, tongue coated, pain in the shoulder blade, feeling sometimes very restless, and at other times drowsy; the food they take lies heavy on the stomach, accompanied with acidity and belching of wind. These symptoms usually originate from a disordered condition of the stomach or a torpid liver. Persons so affected, if they take one or two heavy pills, and if the cough in these cases be bowels moved, the lungs, liver and stomach become clear and healthy and active, and before the patient is aware of his situation, the lungs are a mass of sores, and ulcerated, and death is the inevitable

GOING ALONE

[illegible] alone in my art loving
We go hand in hand merry life goes
[illegible] sunshine ringing
A sight of right and sunlight
After fully assurance unchanging,
Trusting no strength but thrown
Pt past to crushed fade forgotten
In lonely singleness

What wonful miracles have preceded
In days of rejoicing and pride!
How of on the lady that he needed
Has unexpectedly come from his side
Hand in hand while reaching for sunbeam
Which just as he grasped them have flown
All the years of vexation have followed,
He to be going alone

And all through life he will study
His vessel sails again
He will anxiously lean upon shadows,
Full many weary years
All than whose fond clasp was the surest
Will only will see from heaven,
The star of hope will be clouded
And he will be walking alone

If, I am what a storm world we live in,
All the many grow cold like the rest
And just when a warm sunny welcome
For I can whose in trust and best
Is hastened and taught by past sorrow,
A stronger and manlier power
No trusting his all to their keeping
He is true to walk bravely alone

And yet alone for our Father
In to our [illegible] of care will guide,
Through all the dark mazes of earth life
Are the years [illegible]
Of there is a helper unfailing
As sure I will see perfectly trust
We know and believe that
The last all return unto dust
